A Florence man drowned after his canoe overturned in Cypress Creek Monday afternoon

Rescue crews were able to pull a woman to safety. Soon after, they found the canoe, but no sign of the other man on board.

An hour and a half later, kyakers found 25-year old Will Pannell. But it was too late for the Florence native.

The stretch of Cypress Creek is responsible for more than one tragedy. The accident happened in the same spot where another man drowned last summer. The same currents took the life of 46-year old Max Harlan. He died after pulling his two boys to safety.

Several rescue crews helped in the search including Lauderdale Count Emergency Management Agency and the Florence Fire and Rescue.
